

Did you know that local data can be added to Healthy Northeast Ohio?

The majority of data on Healthy Northeast Ohio is curated and maintained by the site's vendor, Conduent Healthy Communities Institute. However, the Healthy Northeast Ohio team has the ability to add local data to the site if it meets certain requirements.

Once it is determined that the local data meets these requirements, the Healthy Northeast Ohio team will work with you to prepare the data in the needed format, and then publish it to the site. Once the data is published, it can be added to a curated dashboard that can be customized.

What are some of the advantages of adding local data to the site?

- ✓ Makes data accessible to all community members in an easy-to-use format
- ✓ Allows site users to download ready to use data visualizations (e.g., graphs, maps)
- ✓ Increases transparency and allows for tracking progress
- ✓ Provides deeper context around local issues
- ✓ Potential to save organizations time related to data requests

What things should you consider when selecting local data to add?

- ✓ Would the data be useful to your organization, partners and other community members using the site?
- ✓ Is the data relevant to community goals and priority areas?
- ✓ Is the data different than what is currently available on the site?
- ✓ Is the data current, and will it be collected again?
- ✓ What will the data compare to (e.g., prior measurement period, state value, HP2030 target)?
- ✓ Is the data available at a granular level to allow for identifying disparities?

What are examples of local data that can be added?

- ✓ Community Health Needs Assessment (CHNA) data
- ✓ Programmatic data (e.g., Ohio Healthy Programs)
- ✓ Health care system data (e.g., health metrics for children)
- ✓ Other needs assessment data (e.g., older adults, LGBTQ+, municipality-specific)
- ✓ City/regional/state data (e.g., lead poisoning data from the Ohio Department of Health)
- ✓ Other

Do you have local data that you are interested in adding to Healthy Northeast Ohio?

Please contact the Healthy Northeast Ohio team if you would like to add local indicators either from data you have collected, or city/regional/state data that you think would improve the site.
